Such people talk of getting religion. It is something to be gathered, like early peaches, from without. It matters not whether people get it at sixty or at twenty years of age, just so they get it. A man, it is true, runs some little risk waiting till old age to seek religion, for he might be killed by a stray builet, or a sudden fall, or a kerosene explosion, without a moment's time to make the proper preparation. Commissioner Montgomery, of the Patent Office, reperts that he expects within the next four months to bring the work of his bureau up to date. Congress last session made a large increase in the examining eerps and all are now busy at work. Important recommendations regarding changes in certain sections of the law are made and it is also recommended that the subscription to the Official Gazette be raised from $5 to $750.

The present price of $5 does not pay the cost of production, but since the surplus from other sources is more than $100,000 a year, the Office might afford to look a little on the Gazette.

The following Is an extract from

Cancer:
Some five years ago a barber accidentally ent my lower lip while shaving me. The pain was very slight and for some time hardly gave it a passing thought. Finally it assumest appears to have a remarkable memo ry for names. Relating an incident connected with his not very remote visit to his birthidare, at Fairview, In Told county, Kentucky, he gare a happy illustration of this faculty. He said that at the old-fashioned barbeone given in his honor during the visit, much attention was shorn him by certain elderly ladies of the neighborhood which he had left when a toy of right years. One lady was especdays, and he recalled a sunny-faced little girl whom he had called his sweetheart at the mature age of eight years, she being perhaps a year younger. So he asked the lady, "What became of Patry Bell?" A thish of gratitied pride swept over the dear old lady's face as the responded: "Why Mr. Davis, I'm Putty Heli." Not the honors won on the field in Mexico, the civic rrown parned in the Sense, nor the high duties of a prond presidency had driven from his mind the name of a little loved one, though strange lines upon her face when they two met ugain upon the decliping slope of ilfe."
